

Webinar on Co-Designing the University of the Future

January 26th, 16:00 – 17:30 CET

In collaboration with FernUniversität in Hagen (Germany), Warwick Business School (England) and Vienna University of Economics and Business (Austria)

How to lead European universities from COVID-19 emergency teaching to a long-term (digital) education strategy?

In this upcoming webinar, our renowned experts explore the ongoing change process in higher education:

- The changing role of universities – visionary thoughts of Ada Pellert (FernUniversität in Hagen, Germany)
- Stakeholder cooperation and collaborative learning as key issues for the university of the future – valuable insight by Oliver Vettori (Vienna University of Economics and Business, Austria)
- Form emergency teaching to a sound mix of online and in-presence education – proven experiences by Pietro Micheli (Warwick Business School, England)

Join our webinar on January 26th 2021 16:00 – 17:30 CET and meet our team of professionals who will share their insights on:

- How COVID-19 experiences can be used to co-design the university of the future;
- Which aspects can be integrated in long-term higher education management; and
- How resistance from faculty may be overcome.
